

Graduate Programme 2016 – Audit, Tax & Advisory

KPMG is a global network of member firms with over 162,000 people worldwide, including more than 9,000 people across 16 offices in China. We provide audit, tax and advisory services to many of the world's foremost companies. Our client focus, our commitment to excellence, our global mindset and unparalleled delivery build long standing partnerships based on trust and integrity, which are at the core of our business and international reputation.

Audit

Our Audit professionals are never short of exciting projects. Essentially, we give clients our view on whether their financial statements are a “true and fair” reflection of reality. You will be liaising with client management and developing an understanding of client business processes and accounting procedures. You will be auditing companies’ financial performance and net assets for their initial public offerings on stock exchanges, rendering opinions for regulatory compliance purposes, or assisting clients in proposed merger and acquisition transactions.

You will have opportunities to work alongside other professionals such as investment bankers, lawyers and appraisers. You will be exposed to clients in diverse industries and different geographical locations. You will understand how they operate, formulate strategies and monitor performance.

“KPMG provides a very comprehensive and structured learning and development platform. You can attend any training classes to equip yourself with the most advanced and professional knowledge in the industry.”

- Arron Zhang, Manager

Tax

As a Tax professional with KPMG, you will be joining a team that helps clients address critical business issues. From interpreting legislation to long-term planning and strategies, you will work collaboratively with clients and colleagues to think beyond the present, to see beyond borders, and to achieve long-lasting success. You will be challenged to adopt multi-disciplinary approaches and skills that reflect the needs of contemporary tax issues. Our people are “modern tax professionals” in every sense – and you will be too.

“We work with clients and colleagues from different cities or even different countries to work out legal terms that align with the domestic tax requirements. There are a lot of diversity and cross-boundary learning in the work that we do. My client portfolio is not just financial services, we are also offering services to aviation, manufacturing and goods and services.”

- Joerg Riebel, Senior Manager
